Dear Harlan,

Anderson Air is pleased to reaffirm our strong support for the Canadian Business Aviation Association (CBAA) and the important work it undertakes on behalf of Canada's business aviation sector.

The CBAA serves as a critical voice for our industry, advocating on matters such as regulatory reform, operational standards, and environmental responsibility. We actively share the value of CBAA membership with our clients and peers, recognizing that meaningful progress is achieved when industry stakeholders work together through a unified and respected organization.

We are also proud to support key CBAA initiatives, including the CBAA Compensation Study. This study provides essential benchmarking data on compensation structures, benefits, and employment practices across Canadian business aviation. Access to reliable industry data enables operators to remain competitive in attracting and retaining top talent while promoting transparency and professionalism within our sector.

Anderson Air remains committed to contributing to initiatives that strengthen industry standards and support sustainable growth in Canadian business aviation. We look forward to continuing our involvement with the CBAA and supporting its ongoing leadership within our community.

Sincerely,

Ryan Anderson
